New image for style-setting city night spot

Inside the glitzy new club.

CAMBRIDGE'S top night spot opens its doors this week with a new look and a new name.

The grand opening night at Cinderellas Rockerfellas — formerly Ronelles — promises to be an action-packed event.

Top disc jockey Bruno Brookes will be making an appearance, along with Hot Flesh and their fire dance spectacular, Marc Oberon the illusionist, and robots Adam and Eve.

Conversion

The evening begins with a jazz band playing outside the club at the Heidelberg Gardens in Lion Yard, and the fun continues until 2am.

Mecca Leisure has spent £230,000 on the refurbishment scheme at Cinderellas Rockerfellas, and the Cambridge club is the first of 45 club conversions in the country to be completed by the entertainment chain.

The 625 capacity club now sports a more upmarket image, and has been decorated throughout in dark blue and refurbished in blues and pinks.

Both bar areas have been upgraded to improve service, and the kitchen facilities have been improved to serve the new 34-seater Waldo T Pepper's restaurant area.

The discotheque area has a new maple floor and a lighting rig comprising nearly 600 coloured bulbs. Dancers will be illuminated by strobes, neons, pin spots, helicopters and mirror globes.

The refurbishment has given the club a more open plan effect, and is topped off by the new £22,000 blue and pink Axminster carpet, selected to withstand the impact of thousands of feet each week. The toilet and office facilities have also been improved.

Cinderellas Rockerfellas is run by a five-strong team headed by manager Howard Cooper and assisted by deputy manager Mark Cox. Senior assistant manager is Suzanne Slack, and the two assistant managers are Guy Geddes and Giuseppe Claria.

They are helped by a small army of bar staff, catering staff, disc jockeys, lighting crew, receptionists and cashiers.

The team are delighted with the re-fit, planned after Mecca Leisure took over the night club last November.

Cinderellas Rockerfellas is aimed at the over 21 market, and unlike most night clubs is open six nights each week from 9pm until 2am.

On Monday the club is geared for language school students, along with Tuesday during May, June, July, August and September, with private functions during the rest of the year.

Wednesday is ladies party night with free admission, and Thursday is "Mirage" night with quality entertainment for the over 21s.

Friday night is dubbed "Obsessions" and is a very fashionable evening for those who love to dance, and Saturday is the busiest night of the week when club-goers "dress to impress".

It costs £5 to go in to Cinderellas Rockerfellas on a Saturday night, but other nights range from as little as £2, depending on the time of arrival.

There is a strict dress rule at the club and smart dress is essential. Men must wear a collar and tie and jeans and trainers are not acceptable.

Cinderellas Rockerfellas has invited guests to a champagne VIP opening on Thursday, but people paying at the door will be charged £1 before 10pm, £2 until 11pm, and then £3.
